WHY VISAPRO

Four reasons clients and partners trust us

1

One specialism, twenty years of it

Immigration is the only service we sell. Since 2006 our consultants have worked on nothing else, which is why we can usually tell you in the first meeting whether a route is realistic and what evidence it will genuinely require.

A near-perfect record, including the difficult cases

More than 10,000 applications with close to a 100% success rate, backed by a money-back guarantee.* That record includes files other advisers had declined and cases the Immigration Department had already refused.

3

A home-grown Hong Kong founder and team

Our founder and our whole team are Hong Kong people, working from our own office in Quarry Bay. We speak fluent English, Cantonese and Mandarin, and we are in the same city and time zone as your case throughout.

4

Compliance first, managed by a Hong Kong CPA

We only file what we can stand behind: no overstated job descriptions and no manufactured documents, because a shortcut taken today is what costs an extension or permanent residency later. Fees are fixed and agreed in advance.

START HERE

Three situations, three starting points

Coming to Hong Kong

You are overseas or on the Mainland, or you are relocating someone into Hong Kong from abroad for the first time.

USUAL ROUTES

TTPS · Employment Visa · ASMTP
TechTAS · Investment Visa

WHAT WE DO FIRST

We review eligibility and the evidence you already hold, then give you a written recommendation of the route your documents can genuinely support.

Already in Hong Kong

You hold a Hong Kong visa and something is changing: a new employer, an expiry date, family joining you, or year seven approaching.

USUAL ROUTES

Change of sponsorship · Change of status
Extension · Dependant · Right of Abode

WHAT WE DO FIRST

We audit your status and dates: what has to be filed, in what order and by when, so that there is never a gap in your permission to stay.

Hiring into Hong Kong

You are Hong Kong-based HR or management, sponsoring non-local hires or intra-company transfers into the company.

USUAL ROUTES

Sponsor filing · Market-availability test
Facilitation measures · Talent List

WHAT WE DO FIRST

We run a sponsor readiness check so that your first case builds the evidence pack that every later hire can reuse without starting again.

Whichever door you come through, the first consultation is free and nothing is invoiced until the route and the fee are agreed in writing.

HOW WE WORK

What our one-stop service actually covers

Applying for government documents is slow, procedural and easy to get wrong. The point of having us run the application is the time and trouble saved, for the sponsor and for the applicant alike. Every stage below is included in the fee.

Before we file

- A full review of the circumstances, including the applicant's and the sponsor's position
- Selecting the most appropriate visa type and the correct forms
- Advice on how the application should be justified

Building the file

- A tailored document checklist for the sponsor and for the applicant
- Drafting the business plan where one is needed
- Drafting any other letters the Immigration Department requires
- A careful review of every form and document before submission

Filing and follow-through

- Submission to the Immigration Department, online or in person as the case requires
- Follow-up on the progress of the application
- Keeping the sponsor and the applicant informed
- Careful handling of any further correspondence with the Department

One point of contact throughout. The sponsor and the applicant each hand over one set of documents. From there the drafting, the filing, the chasing and the correspondence with the Immigration Department are ours to manage.

NEW TO HONG KONG

Setting up a subsidiary and the first visas

When a group enters Hong Kong for the first time, the company and the visa have to be built together.

1 — 1-2 weeks

Incorporate the entity

Company formation, registered office, company secretary and business registration, so there is a real Hong Kong employer to sponsor the visa.

2 — about 3 weeks

Office and recruitment

A genuine office address and evidence of local recruitment efforts, unless a facilitation measure or the Talent List removes that requirement.

3 — in parallel

Prepare the documents

Business plan, job description and salary benchmark, plus the parent company's audited accounts — its financial standing is what carries the case.

4 — 2 months or more

Immigration processing

The file is submitted online, and we handle every follow-up question, document request and progress chase until the visa is granted.

Steps 1, 2 and 3 run in parallel. We start drafting the visa documents while the company is still being incorporated, so nothing waits on anything else. A first-time entry is realistically three to four months from instruction to visa in hand.

Nobody may work before approval

This applies to a company owner and a director as much as to an employee.

The parent company carries the case

Audited accounts, group structure and a credible reason to be in Hong Kong.

One point of contact throughout

The same Hong Kong specialist handles the company and the visa side.

THE LONG VIEW

Eight years of filings, seven years to residency

Most professionals are now on a 3/3/2 pattern — three years, then three, then two — with permanent residency at year seven.

Seven years is a long time to be managed from another time zone

We are Hong Kong people

Cantonese is what matters when a case officer telephones with questions, asks for further documents, or when we chase a file that has gone quiet.

Here the moment it matters

Same city, same time zone. A question is answered the same day rather than after an overnight email cycle with an offshore team.

Introductions for settling in

We do not sell relocation services, but as Hong Kong people we can introduce you to the schools, agents, bankers and advisers our clients already use.

Most agents stop at the first approval. We track every expiry date, flag each filing window before it opens, and keep the evidence trail consistent across all three filings — because an inconsistency introduced in year two is what costs people their permanent residency in year seven.

FOR HR AND MANAGEMENT

Built to keep the work off your desk

What your team gets

- One named Hong Kong specialist per case — no call centre and no reassignment mid-file
- A single consistent evidence story across all of your cases, so that Immigration Department queries drop away
- Sponsor-side templates built once with you, then reused for every subsequent hire
- A maintained database of every non-local employee's visa dates, with a reminder to HR around two months before each expiry, so that no renewal is missed
- Advice on facilitation measures and Talent List exemptions, where proof of local recruitment can legitimately be skipped
- Progress updates written so that you can forward them to management unedited

What sits behind us

Three working languages

Fluent English, Cantonese and Mandarin across the team — including Cantonese with the case officer when questions arise.

Twenty years of precedent

More than 10,000 files give us a working record of how each route, sector and sponsor profile is assessed.

Around the visa

Hong Kong company set-up, company-secretarial work, tax advisory, payroll and MPF, all available in-house.

VisaPro is part of Office Links Group, a Hong Kong-headquartered group with its own offices in Hong Kong, Guangzhou, Shenzhen and Dubai, TCSP licence TC001192, and company set-up, tax advisory and corporate services capability. Immigration remains our single focus.

KEY CLIENTS

Listed groups, global brands, and their people

A selection only. Our corporate clients include Hong Kong- and Mainland China-listed groups, multinational insurers and banks, luxury and consumer brands, professional firms and technology and manufacturing groups, together with their assignees from more than 90 countries.

Start with a free consultation.

You will receive a written route recommendation and a realistic timeline before you engage us.
