

Keenan Kwok

CEO and Cofounder

GetLinks Inc

Keenan is currently the CEO and co-founder of GetLinks, Asia's largest tech talents community serving the future of work and up-skilling and pushing digital transformation across all mainstream industries. Keenan is also the co-founder of Social Impact Fund, AERA.VC, and the Vice Chair of Greater Bay Area Young Talents Association. Keenan has built one of Southeast Asia's largest consumer brand and distribution network that recently sold to the Foxconn Technology Group. He started his career in Deutsche Bank as an analyst in the technology investment banking division having raised over $2B+ of capital and M&A activities. He graduated his bachelor and master degrees from University of Michigan Ann Arbor.

Keenan is currently building GetLinks.com as one of the largest digital talents platforms and helped over 1,000+ companies drive digital transformation and social impact projects globally. Using his private and public sector network, knowledge in markets & players, disruptive technologies, finance, and partners-driven scaling spirit, Keenan is well endorsed to bridge the Opportunities, Talents, and Investment gaps between North Asia and Southeast Asia primarily through his GetLinks.com, CPJobs.com, Aera.vc, and AsiaStartups. Constantly consolidating partners to co-create positive impact across Asia.

Keenan and GetLinks is invested and endorsed by the Hong Kong and Thailand Government; Alibaba Entrepreneurs Fund; Asia's largest HR tech giant SEEK ($10Bn+ market value); the Thai Royal Conglomerate 'Siam Cement Group', leading venture capital firms like 500 Startups, Cyberagent, and large family offices such as Adrian Cheng of New World Property Group, Forbes, Peterson and others.
