MJS Food is a Hong Kong based food supplier and caterer. Its central kitchen concept is designed to provide healthy and affordable daily meals. The company has chefs with over 22 years of experience, influenced by different cuisines and passionate to make fresh food accessible.

MJS Food has established a central kitchen in San Po Kong where it can deliver lunch and dinner meals, cater for events and also help restaurants and cafes with food production. The company chose to set up in Hong Kong because 90 percent of local residents eat out every day, but they are lack of awareness and not easy to consume healthy nutrition food on a daily basis. MJS Food sees the opportunity to influence people on the way they think about food, and make clean eating in Hong Kong fun and affordable.

Europa Tea Foundry

Europa Tea Foundry is named after Jupiter’s second nearest moon Europa, which was discovered by Galileo Galilei in the 17th Century. The moon gets its name from a beautiful Phoenician princess from Greek mythology. Jupiter has at least 67 known moons, of which Europa is regarded as the most beautiful one.

Hong Kong attracts a large number of business visitors and tourists from all over the world, making the city a perfect choice for Europa’s first store outside Taiwan. Europa opened its first Hong Kong store in Causeway Bay in June 2018, which aims to promote tea culture from Taiwan to customers across the world. Despite its small size, the company hopes to stand out from its competitors by providing a range of special and high quality tea drinks.

First Mall

Headquartered in Taiwan, First Mall owns a number of premium food brands that are sold at high-end supermarkets. As one of Taiwan’s leading retailers of premium Japanese and international food brands, the company adopts strict food quality control to ensure that all products meet high food safety standards. The company has also cooperated with a Taiwan Shennong Award winner to introduce the well-known brand “King Pork”. In order to provide customers with natural and beta-agonists free pork products, pigs are reared according to high animal welfare standards and with special feed made of koji fungus and green tea powder from Kagoshima, Japan.

The company operates both online and offline and provides a number of exclusive services for its members. It also organises cooking classes that demonstrate how to use various condiments and fresh ingredients. The company plans to bring this business model to Hong Kong to enable customers there to further understand the way of cooking appetizing dishes.

Mamaday

Mamaday is a Taiwanese café that serves a range of international cuisines. Its flagship store is located next to Taipei Arena. In May this year the café opened a second store in Causeway Bay, Hong Kong.

In Cantonese, 'Mamaday’ means ‘mediocre’ or ‘average’. The café chose this name to remind itself of the areas in which it needs to improve, and also to prevent customers from holding unrealistic expectations - when expectations are not high, customers are easier to satisfy and less likely to be disappointed. Mamaday’s stores provide a relaxing, stylish oasis for customers to escape from the busy pace of city life.

NIDO

Located at 254 Hollywood Road, NIDO ASIA art Space was opened in June 2018. The gallery welcomes artists, art lovers and the curious crowd from all around the world. Its transparent glass door, not separating inside and outside, is open for creativity without limit on form and content. It expects to let more people appreciate art and the power of creation.

The slogan of NIDO ASIA is ‘Art is an egg’, and NIDO means nest in Italian, which means to incubate new life, new art. To break the egg from outside, that is pressure, to break the egg from inside, which is vitality. This is the concept of NIDO, to seek and support art creation and bring art into daily life.

Kencko is a smart food company that helps health-conscious consumers eat healthier. Founded by Tomás Froes in New York in January 2017, the company’s mission is to make high-quality nutritious fruit and vegetables available anytime, anywhere, in any shape or format, and be delicious.

The market’s interest in healthy drinks, its size and its acceptance of new food products has made Asia a very appropriate market for Kencko. The effectiveness of influencer marketing, which is a key channel for Kencko, in metropolitans such as Hong Kong, has made the city a perfect starting point for further expansion in the region.

As a direct-to-consumer online business, Kencko’s presence in Hong Kong will focus on sales and marketing of its existing products in the local market.

A biotechnology startup, Phase Scientific International Limited has developed a ground-breaking sample-preparation technology that can make any diagnostic tool more affordable, accessible, faster, easier and more accurate, bringing together the benefits of point-of-care tests, which is ease-of-use, speed and low cost, with the sensitivity and accuracy of lab-based diagnostics. The company aims to extend the benefits of its products with a health data platform that enables big data analytics and telemedicine. Its first product, a test kit to assess the risk of tooth decay, will launch in Hong Kong in Q4 2018.

The company believes in the commitment of the HKSAR Government to develop the biotech industry locally, and wants to take advantage of the favourable business and policy environment here by establishing its global headquarters with R&D facility in Hong Kong, strengthened by R&D, manufacturing and other supporting facilities in Southern California in the US and Suzhou in Mainland China.
